Yes, Hong Kong is an inalienable part of China.

Hong Kong belongs to the Hong Kong people.
Hong Kong belongs to the Chinese people.
Hong Kong is a world metropolis.

Subject:A2(1) What should 'actual situation' constitute

    Move To:

Actual situation is that Mr. Tung Chi Wah job performance as chief executive (CE) of Hong Kong was deemed to many as unacceptable, that over 0.5 million Hong Kong people demonstrated their dissent of Mr. Tung's performance.

These 0.5 million Hong Kong demonstrators is creating an "actual situation" to bring the attention of the flaw (s) in the Basic Law selection process that currently allowed the un-popular Mr. Tung to gain re-selection as the second-term CE.

Most want the CE selection process to be reformed so un-popular candidate(s) will not be re-selected as CE of Hong Kong.

Subject: A2(2) How 'gradual and orderly progress' should be understood

    Move To:

Hong Kong people uphold an orderly progress. Hong Kong people are law abiding.

CE Election Committee had been following a 'gradual' path of allowing only a close circuit of only 400 members, later on increased to 800 members.

0.5 million Hong Kong demonstrators would want a faster pace than this 'gradual' progress. A lot of Hong Kong people would like general election during 2007 of the Hong Kong CE, and general election during 2008 of "all members" of the legislative council, only a small minority of Hong Kong people object. This minority is making a lot of noise.

Subject:A3(1) Meet 'the interests of the different sectors of society'

    Move To:

To meet 'the interests of the different sectors of society' the most effective way should be that the Hong Kong CE should be representative of the Hong Kong people, so the CE should be given representation ONLY by the Hong Kong people and is elected by the Hong Kong people, that is the only way to uphold legitimate representative power.

If people elected a wrong CE they should have laws that governs under what circumstances to oust the CE.

Subject: A3(2) 'Facilitate the development of the capitalist economy'

    Move To:

In order to facilitate the development of the capitalist economy, no new taxes, uphold low tax rate, few new laws, policies and regulations. Not much government interfrance. Let the people rest, and thus give rooms for the magic invisible hand of market orientated economy to do the rest.
