Subject:A1(1) Hong Kong is an inalienable part of China

    Move To:

Hong Kong is an inalienable part of China. The political reform in terms of gradual democratization eg. one person one vote to elect the Chief Executive of Hong Kong and legislative councillor will not affect this principle.

Subject: A1(2) HKSAR comes directly under the CPG

    Move To:

According to Sino and British Joint Declaration and Basic Law, Central Government is only responsible for national defence and diplomatic affair of Hong Kong. Now, the central government or some retired people, who claimed or presented themselves as a representatives of central government, talked and interfered the election matters of chief executive and legislative councillors of Hong Kong.

For national defense and diplomatic affair areas, which of these areas that above election matters fall into ? Are they violating Basic Laws ? Can what these personnels say supercede Basia Laws ?

Subject:A2(1) What should 'actual situation' constitute

    Move To:

The actual situation should constitutes:

- 1/ the political demand and voice of general people of Hong Kong.
- 2/ the level of understanding of democracy of Hong Kong people, their general educational level, compared with other democratic countries, economic development level
- 3/ the political need of Hong Kong SAR government to empower itself, making itself fully legitimate and authorized to run Hong Kong by means of electing the chief executive by one person one vote voting system

Subject:A2(2) How 'gradual and orderly progress' should be understood

    Move To:

Time is not the key element of gradual and orderly progress. Gradual and orderly progress means progressive democratization in orderly manner. If democratic events can be carried out under an orderly, widely accepted and clean environment to elect a smart Chief Executive, who can serve as a leadership and bridge between Central Government and local HK government, no matter how quick and slow it is, time is not the key element. Hong Kong or Hong Kong people have already had above positive factors that deserve of one person one vote voting. Intentional slowing down the progress will inevitable turns Hong Kong to negative side of political development and hence harming the economic environment.

Subject: A3(2) 'Facilitate the development of the capitalist economy'

    Move To:

Hong Kong has been practising capitalist economy for over 150 years. It is very ironic to hear that a socialist Central Government claims that it is safeguarding the capitalist system of Hong Kong.
