Dear Donald,

A2(1) "the real situation" should mean that the "people's republic" belongs to the majority of people, belongs to all partys and social organizations, but not to any individual party!! It means that Hong Kong belongs to Hong Kong people but not to a minority of persons! Hong Kong people has the right of general election which nobody can take back!!

All the governmental leaders should be elected by the people, but not designated by some small group of persons. Ask those people who are afraid of people, of general election what means the "people's republic"? "The people is the master creating the History", even said Mao. Why the executive chief of Hong Kong is elected by a small group of persons but not by the general election? Why, why? These persons can represent themselves only, but not the majority of Hong Kong citizens!

Is such "real situation" reasonable????? If it's unreasonable, why don't change it?? When it could be changed, after 50 years????? Why somebody are so afraid of the voice of the majority???

A "Citizen vote" will be hold in Taiwan. That's good to hear/see what the majority of people want. In Hong Kong, the question whether the general election will be beneficial to Hong Kong or not should be decided be the Hong Kong people, even through a citizen vote!!!

The people is the master of themselves and should/would not be represented by somebody else!!!!

The majority of Hong Kong people love their motherland, we hope our country will become one where the people will enjoy freedom, equality and democracy, as designed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Father of Chinese Nation!
