Subject:A2(1) What should 'actual situation' constitute

    Move To:

"actual situation" should be constituted by the followings:

1) The actual situation of the ending of the period of "getting to know you".
Hong Kong has been separated from Mainland China for more than one hundred years when it became a colony of Britain. It will take at least several decades, even under the most favorable conditions, for Hong Kong people to get to know Mainland China. The length of the period depends a lot on what steps will have been taken by Hong Kong to get to know the Mainland China in various aspects. Cultural, dialects, customs, business, economic are just a few of these aspects.

2) The actual situation of the progress made by Mainland China in moving from a developing country to a developed country. It will take decades.

3) The situation of whether Mainland China and Hong Kong SAR are comfortable with each other.
