Subject: Views on 2007/2008 Electoral System

Dear Sirs,

Re: Personal views on 2007/2008 Electoral System for our Chief Executive

---

I write to express my personal views in relation with the above subject, and wish to say that I support the Central Leadership's decision that no direct election, or Universal Suffrage is to be held before on that particular new Chief Executive term.

As HK's economy is just started to picking up, I do wish our Executive Representatives as well as Administrative Officers to stay focus on promoting our long-suffered economic situation. We HK Citizens' major concern should be on economy progression, rather than political reform as HK had never had any so-called "direct-election" in anyway or by any means during the one hundred fifty year's British governance. I also do not agree that there's any need of rushing into such a drastic political reform after HK returns to its Motherland's hand.

Any political reform without our Central Leadership's condone is a total violation of the "One Country, Two Systems" policy. While the "two systems" is well operating and taken care of now in HK the "One Country" should not be ignored or intentionally/motively disregarded.

Regards!
Peter, Chan
